Alex Yontz takes on Anderson Motor Speedway

Another Top-10 Finish for Cardinal Motorsports

Lexington, NC — The UARA-STARS series was in Anderson, SC this past weekend for the Slawson Transmission 150 at Anderson Motor Speedway. Alex Yontz in the No. 77 C&J Energy Services Chevrolet was the fastest during practice Thursday and qualified third for the 150-lap event.

The team felt good about the car going into the race Friday night; however Yontz suffered a loose condition during the event and had to resign to eighth for the finish. Ronnie Basset Jr. took first place. Yontz currently rests in fourth place in the driver point standings.

Ed Berrier, crew chief for the No. 77 Chevrolet commented on the car after the race Friday.

“We had a competitive car this weekend with Alex being the fastest during practice and qualifying third for the event. We’ll make a few adjustments at the shop this week and be ready for Lonesome Pine.”

Cardinal Motorsports will return to Lonesome Pine Raceway for the second UARA-STARS event at the track this season on September 3rd.
